

LEVERAGING IN-HOUSE STAFF VERSUS OUTSOURCING

Effectively managing the revenue cycle requires a comprehensive knowledge of billing, coding, compliance, payer policies, patient eligibility, technology, communication, financial reporting, and ongoing education. Each revenue cycle operation is unique, and your insights surpass those of any external vendor. Instead of reacting to external contributions that may not align with your revenue cycle objectives, take a more proactive approach.

EQUIPPING YOUR IN-HOUSE STAFF

IN-HOUSE STAFFING GIVES YOU CONTROL OF YOUR REVENUE CYCLE AND TAILORS YOUR STRATEGIES TO MEET THE GOALS, OBJECTIVES, AND CULTURE YOU HAVE DEFINED

eValuator™

IDENTIFY & QUANTIFY POTENTIAL REVENUE CYCLE ISSUES

CATEGORIZE, OPTIMIZE, & DEFINE GOALS FOR YOUR REVENUE CYCLE

ENCOURAGE INTERDISCIPLINARY COLLABORATION WITHIN YOUR ORGANIZATION

SUCCESSSES FOR YOUR STAFF

Uncover new and unnoticed issues

Reduce denials and rebilling efforts, increase revenue integrity, and Improve quality and coder skills in real time

Maintain control over the focus of coding audits, quality, productivity, and ongoing coding education

Clarify roles and responsibilities to avoid confusion or duplication, and streamline the revenue cycle process

Collaborate with various teams, foster unique and innovative solutions

Leverage the collective knowledge and skills across different departments

CLIENT TESTIMONIAL

USING EVALUATOR, A 600 BED ACADEMIC FACILITY:

- 1 Retained staffing control in areas of shortages, costs, and skills development
- 2 Determined audit support resource needs, resulting in valuable staffing metrics
- 3 Leveraged Streamline's audit services to validate hiring an additional internal auditor

“ Being able to bring auditing in house shows a sense of ownership. We've been able to create a great bond where trust was developed between Auditing and Coding which was built on open communication.

eValuator has allowed us to constantly provide feedback and education concurrently. It has created growth opportunities for our staff due to our growing team.